

Aloe Aphids

Some aloes are very prone to aphids and woolly aphids; these are usually found in the crown and soft growing point or in between the leaf bases, very often carried onto the plant by ants which feed on an excretion of the aphids